DON'T JUST SEE...DO! EXPERIENCE SOUTHERN INDIANA!

COOK WITH TOMORROW'S STAR CHEFS:

Work side-by-side with a budding student chef from our local technical high school. Your group will break up into teams to prepare the evening's meal and will rotate through each station to have a hands-on experience. The school's horticultural program supplies the fresh local greens and vegetables to add farm-to-table to the meal.

PLAY CLUE AT THE CULBERTSON MANSION:

Did Colonel Mustard commit the crime in the library with the revolver? One of Southern Indiana's opulent mansions will be transformed into an actual Clue game board. Guests will move about the mansion to discover clues and solve the mystery. Costumes and characters are encouraged. Prizes will be awarded for both.

SET THE STAGE AT DERBY DINNER PLAYHOUSE:

Derby Dinner Playhouse, recently named ABA's 2016 Best of the Best Supplier, has been entertaining groups for more than 42 years with their Broadway-style productions and their delicious buffet. Enhance your visit to Derby Dinner Playhouse by going behind the scenes for a hands-on experience in stage presence, character building or theater 101. When your group is enjoying a show later that evening, they will know how they did that!

ON YOUR MARK, GET SET...ART!

Jeffersonville, one of our many quaint cities, has turned itself into a living canvas with public art projects. Sit in with a local artist and create, knowing that your group will be leaving its mark on our community for others to enjoy.

LEARN TO PLAY THE UKULELE:

Your group will find their inner Tiny Tim or Don Ho after visiting Jimmy's Music Center. A master musician will have everyone strumming the four-stringed instrument to a recognizable song. Everyone will learn to play four songs and receive a song book and a ukulele of their very own.

ANCESTRY 101: Historical exploration takes a personal turn. Discover your own roots and ancestry through a class given by the New Albany-Floyd County Public Library. The staff will give you great tools for online research or show you how to use your local library to help map out your family history.

SCENTS AND SENSES: Chanel had to start somewhere to create the now famous Chanel No. 5. Now you can too! This Aveda salon and boutique will have your group experimenting with scents that ignite the senses. Would you prefer a lotion that wakes you up with a citrus note or relaxes you with a lavender scent?

BUCKET BRIGADE: The Vintage Fire Museum prides itself on its magnificent collection of historic pieces that tell the history of firefighting. Upon your group's arrival, they will experience the most ineffective way to squelch a fire: the bucket brigade. This activity will have your group appreciating the modern-day firefighter.

SWEET TREATS TO EAT: Schimpff's Confectionery is no stranger to delectable sweets. They have been making candies for 125 years in the same location. Your group will watch as they make their famous red hots right in front of your eyes, then end the demonstration with a nicely spicy warm treat.

10

MONUMENTAL MEMORIES: This walking tour through downtown Jeffersonville is a look into Southern Indiana's past. Historical photos are positioned throughout downtown at key sites. A printed guide gives your group the history of each monumental memory.

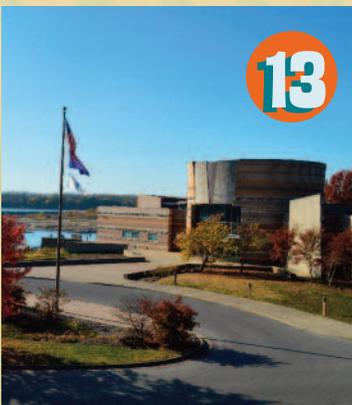

11

JOE HUBER'S FAMILY FARM & RESTAURANT: From spring to fall, Joe Huber's offers fresh air and delicious food. Take a hay ride to the U-Pick fields that offer your group the chance to choose their very own in-season, ripe fruits and vegetables. Include a down home country meal to complete your visit

12

HUBER'S ORCHARD, WINERY AND VINEYARDS: Fresh country air greets groups in the hills of Southern Indiana at Huber's Orchard, Winery and Vineyards. Your tour will include the entire process – from grape to glass. Tastings let your group find just the right blend for a wonderful gift to take home.

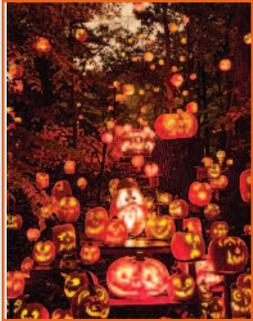

13

WALK ON HISTORY: Literally walk on one of the world's largest, naturally exposed Devonian fossil beds at the Falls of the Ohio. At over 350 million years old, these exposed fossil beds in the Ohio River have many stories of a prehistoric ocean. Ferns, coral and an occasional trilobite allow your imagination to travel through time. You will not want to miss the park's Interpretive Center featuring hands-on exhibits and movie that bring the area's history to life. Sit around a simulated campfire and be a part of the Lewis and Clark Expedition as it prepares for a historic journey.

2017 SoIN Events

MAY: Abbey Road on the River – Held for the first time in Southern Indiana, just one mile north of Louisville, KY, the world's largest Beatles tribute festival will be held over Memorial Day weekend along the north shore of the Ohio River. Groups will experience five fabulous days of Fab Four music right in the heart of Jeffersonville, Indiana. This festival captures the musical act's timeless essence with musical acts from all over the globe. Each band offers their own take on the Beatles music and those that they influenced. There will be eight stages with music that will transport your groups to the time of "peace and love."

OCTOBER: Louisville Jack O' Lantern Spectacular – Over 5,000 professionally carved jack-o-lanterns lighting nearly a one-third-mile Jack O'Lantern Spectacular trail. There are several themed scenes along the trail and are set to music to get your group in the mood for the fall season. Just 15 minutes away from Southern Indiana in Iroquois Park, Louisville. Visit for a spooktacular good time.

2018 SoIN Events

APRIL: Thunder over Louisville – Kicking off the two-week Kentucky Derby Festival, Thunder Over Louisville is North America's largest consecutive fireworks display. Your group's guests will "ooh" and "aah" during the day's airshow featuring both modern and vintage aircraft and then enjoy premium seating on the Indiana side of the Ohio River. (Available only to groups staying in a participating SoIN hotel.)

MAY: Abbey Road on the River – Abbey Road on the River offers some of the best Beatles music played by the world's top Beatles-inspired tribute bands. The festival will be held over Memorial Day weekend with five fabulous days of Fab Four music.
