

Hotel Development in NYC

Welcome to New York.

The hotel pipeline of active developments, renovations, restorations, and expansions continues to outpace the US growth picture. With an active inventory across the five boroughs of more than 118,400 hotel rooms; the city is attracting new brands, international properties, authentic neighborhood independents, and a wide-ranging collection of select service brands, business class hotels, lifestyle and boutique properties, and new luxury destinations. This report covers more than 90 hotels and projects that represent an additional 17,000 net room additions to the city's diverse inventory over the next 30 months. This activity keeps New York City ahead of other urban centers for new developments in the pipeline. Since 2010, the city has seen the addition of more than 30,000 new rooms to inventory.

In this update, we highlight several new openings and the diversity of properties coming on line before the end of 2018 and into early 2019 and beyond. Since May, the Insignia Hotel, a member of the Ascend Collection opened in Brooklyn, the Mr. C. Seaport Hotel, a Leading Hotels of the World member, opened in July with a new restaurant and bar, and the Assemblage added co-working space and extended stay accommodations to Lower Manhattan. In Queens, a dual-branded Courtyard and Fairfield Inn opened in Fresh Meadows, while the Hoxton opened in Brooklyn. In October, the Moxy Downtown opened, along with the Aliz Hotel Times Square, and the AC hotel in the financial district. Exciting developments through the end of the year will include the Times Square EDITION, TownePlace Suites by Marriott, The Arzen Hotel, Park Terrace Hotel, and the Fairfield Inn & Suites in Staten Island. Queens hotel development is moving beyond the airports to exciting neighborhoods in Long Island City, Flushing, Jamaica and Fresh Meadows as several properties will open including a Hilton Garden Inn, Hotel Indigo, SpringHill Suites and several independents. Less obvious, but definitely on the visitor map, are the new developments in both the Bronx and Staten Island. By year end the citywide active inventory is expected to reach 119,500 rooms.

Manhattan hotels have expanded beyond midtown and can now be found from Harlem to Roosevelt Island, from the Upper East Side to Lower Manhattan, the Village, Chinatown, and the Seaport District. As exciting visitor destinations Chelsea, NoMad, Meatpacking, Tribeca and Hell's Kitchen evolve, new hotels are finding unique opportunities for renovated and newly built properties. The Javits Center and Hudson Yards as well as Times Square and the Theater District have spurred exciting growth, especially in mid-priced hotels, throughout these neighborhoods. Paired with the City's existing world-class inventory, options exist at every price point and desired length of stay. From one-night visits to extended stays, from family suites to business class accommodations, from pod-like quarters to spacious penthouses, the City has rooms to suit all traveler needs and preferences. The opportunities for any business, group or independent leisure traveler are immense and continuously improving.

Already looking ahead through the end of 2018 into 2019, the city's hospitality industry is planning for the addition of an estimated 15,000 rooms in new developments in all the boroughs. This will include the return of the landmark Chelsea Hotel, the Eero Saarinen designed TWA flight center returning as the 512 room TWA Hotel and meeting center, new brands making their home in New York including Equinox, Moxy, Six Senses, Pestana, StayPineapple and an Aman Hotel as well as key brands at all chain scales across Manhattan and the boroughs.

Information about many of the City's new and proposed hotel projects is provided below. It is not intended as a complete list. As plans change frequently, please contact hotels directly for additional information. All projected opening dates are provisional. At the time of publication, the list of hotel properties under construction was still expected to open on or near their scheduled or projected completion dates. Room counts and other details are subject to change.
