South Korea announced Wednesday that people who have received a first dose of a COVID-19 vaccine will no longer be required to wear masks outdoors starting in July, as part of incentives for those participating in the public vaccine campaign.

The incentive program announced at a daily interagency coronavirus response meeting also included a plan to lift the gathering ban for direct family members who have had their first vaccine dose.

South Korea launched its two-dose vaccination regimen campaign in February and plans to achieve herd immunity by November.

The government has completed the inoculation of 1.9 million people, or 3.8 percent of the country's 52 million population.

Starting in July, those who have received their first vaccine jabs can go outdoors without masks and will be exempt from capacity limits at religious facilities.

Starting next month, those who have received a first dose will also be exempt from the gathering ban of eight among direct family members and have access to community and welfare centers for seniors with fewer restrictions.

Prime Minister Kim Boo-kyum said health authorities plan to fully revise the government's antivirus measures in late September, when more than 70 percent of people are projected to have received their first jabs.

"We will also review loosening indoor mask rules when reaching herd immunity," Kim said. (Yonhap News)

The result of survey conducted by Booking.com.

This announcement is an in-depth analysis based on the answers to a survey conducted on more than 28,000 travelers from 28 countries around the world, including 1,000 Koreans.

◆Vaccine...increased anticipation

Although more time is still needed for the COVID-19 to end, according to this survey, two-thirds of respondents worldwide (66%, 53% in Korea) said, "Through the constant efforts of the medical and scientific community and the introduction of the Corona 19 vaccine, travel will be delayed in 2021. It appeared to have hope that it will resume.

In addition, 66% of respondents (63% in Korea) who answered, 'The thirst for travel increased in 2021 because I did not travel much in 2020.'

◆ "Post Corona" top priority "Travel"

Amid many hopeful views of the future situation, many of the world's travelers believe that the quality of life has significantly deteriorated as they are not able to enjoy travel as freely as before during the year 2020.

In support of this, about half of the respondents (47% globally, 56% Korea) answered that 'I felt like I was trapped at home due to travel restrictions. It is confirmed that travel is an important part of the quality of life, with 48% (52% in Korea) who answered that there is.

In fact, about two-thirds (64%, 65% in Korea) of respondents around the world said, "I have come to think more about travel than before the coronavirus pandemic."

◆ 'cooperation' is essential

Through the results of this survey, it was a common view that governments, travelers, and the entire travel industry would need to make efforts to safely navigate the travel destinations they dream of.

In fact, with Corona 19 significantly changing the shape of the travel industry, almost the majority of respondents (95% global, 96% Korea) thought that the travel industry needs support to regain stability'.

In the future, travelers from all over the world are expected to actively work to support safe travel. 60% of global travelers (63% in Korea) who participated in the survey answered that they are willing to accept vaccination if they need to prove that they have been vaccinated for travel, and 73% (76% in Korea) answered that they would not wear a mask while traveling. I will accept the mandated measures.'

Travel agents and tour operators

Hana tour is returning with about 200 staffs in the office, but mainly for local destinations.

They started to program for destination of Switzerland and Hawaii who are rather easy for entry regulation.

Since there are some numbers of already vaccinate people, they are targeting to those people, in two or few months later.

Mode tour is also started to program of Hawaii and some of their members are returning to the office but at moment for Europe market only few of them are working.

Very Good Tour, Yellow Balloon, Red cap and Interpark are the main ones who try to prepare for further destinations, like Europe.

But these days USA is one of strongly approaching destination, in the name of Vaccine Tour to New York.

It all depends on countries in Europe and its flights– Airlines.

We are sure that many of the Airlines increase the frequencies, some of them from July, at least from September.

For instance, Hawaiian airlines from 2 flights will increase to daily flights from September.

Also Delta airlines will follow the same.

Korean Air is enjoying their profit from Cargo traffic, for passenger traffic we did not hear yet.

Turkish Airlines flies 3 times weekly.
